YOU

Ember & Air

Who is who. You are Josh, a heating advisor at Ember & Air (an example company). Mark is a customer: he asks a question on the website. Piotr is your colleague. Marta is your speaking coach. Dana owns the company.

The story: Mark asks; you answer with a Take; Will gives you feedback; you ask Piotr first; you send your better Take to Mark; Mark books. Built only from the designs in the code, plus what the founder agreed.

Your answers stay on this screen; download them at the end.

The shelf

Set up once: what the business can point to in an answer, brought in from its shop and its booking system. One shape for everything: a name, a link, a type, maybe a price or a picture. The type only sets the customer's button: Book, Buy, Watch, Open, Get a quote.

A quote never shows a price (the install is priced after the survey). It grows by pasting a link in Will's chat.

Your turn

Where do customers buy your products online?

Buy opens your own checkout; the money and the receipt stay yours.

- Shopify
- WooCommerce
- Another shop
- Quotes only, no shop

One tap. You can change it later.

Everyone starts with Will

Day one: one chat, Will's. It is the person's own chat and the only one where they can type (N292, N298).

Everyone has their own link to join them in a chat (N308). They paste it into any email or message they already send, or type someone's email or WhatsApp number and WillpowerLab sends it (N307). A junior sends it to a senior, a senior to a junior: it works both ways. Customers get a different link, an ask link: a small page for a question and photos, with no account (N312).

Your answers stay on this screen; download them at the end.

Josh gets a notice

One notice per message, the same for everyone: who sent it, never what. By email, or by WhatsApp if the person gave their number; the path the coach's reply uses today. The link opens that chat.

Mark's question

Mark's chat: his question and his two photos, nothing else. The bar is the locked one (N296, N297), with the emoji where "Type here" sits, because only Will's chat takes typing (N306); pass it on sits in the "+" place. For a customer, recording is a Take.

What you'll point to

Before the Take: what you see, and what you'll recommend from the shelf. Will ticks what fits Mark's words, his photos and the team's past answers; one tap keeps or swaps. Each pick is a slide while you talk, and a button for Mark.

Will's feedback walk

The locked walk: Will's feedback on one moment, the highest-leverage one; the answer the junior sends is the practised Take (N292 item 4). Then other speakers (C8): three moments from the company, judged in the walk, voice only. Judging happens in the walk, nowhere else.

Piotr answers

Proposals 1 and 2 of the audit. The Take reaches Piotr as its slides, each with its stretch of voice: he taps 👍 on a slide that is fine and holds the mic on the one that is not, so the correction lands on its moment and his answer is know-how, slide by slide. Three emoji, each with one meaning everywhere: 👍 it's good, 👀 seen, I'll answer, 🙏 thanks.

What your AI learned from this one answer

WHAT WAS SEEN

Radiators OK | Two radiators too small

WHAT WAS RECOMMENDED

Home heat survey · Smart thermostat

THE WORDS

"From the photos most of your radiators can work with a heat pump; two may need to be bigger."

WHAT THE CUSTOMER DID

Booked the home heat survey

Your estimate

From your answers (a middle volume until you choose yours). We check it on your first month.

35 questions a month
Middle estimate

About 9 surveys booked
If 1 in 4 who ask book the home heat survey

About 3 installs · £37,500
If 1 in 3 surveys become an install, about £12,500 each with the grant

About 7 sold · £1,043
If 1 in 5 buy the smart thermostat

≈ £38,543 a month

About 3 minutes per answer
Your advisor talks; WillpowerLab writes, sends and follows up

Your advisors sound surer every week
Feedback after every answer, from Will and a speaking coach

Josh answers most questions alone now
Piotr checks the hard ones; a gas smell or a safety
