

WHAT YOU SEE

Nothing yet: the middle is "Start your first recording".

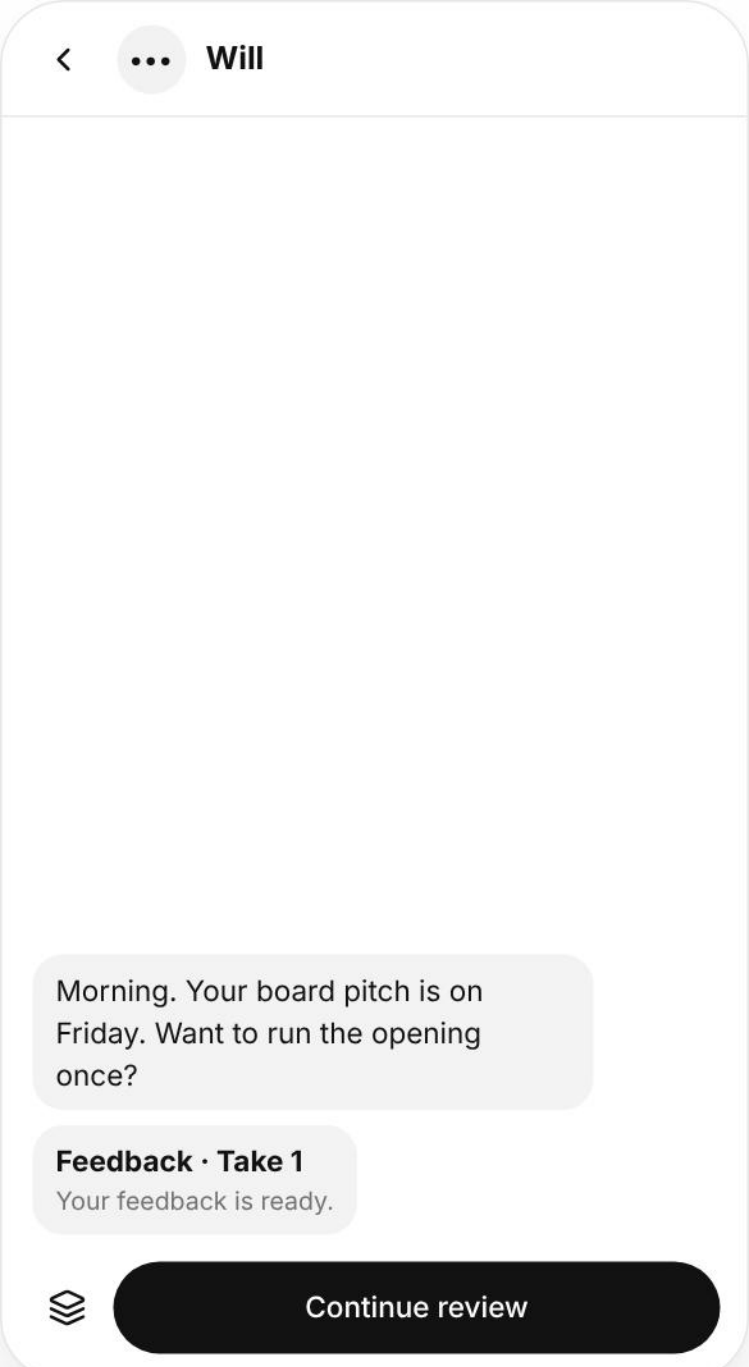

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Your last Take is being processed, so the next one waits, faded.

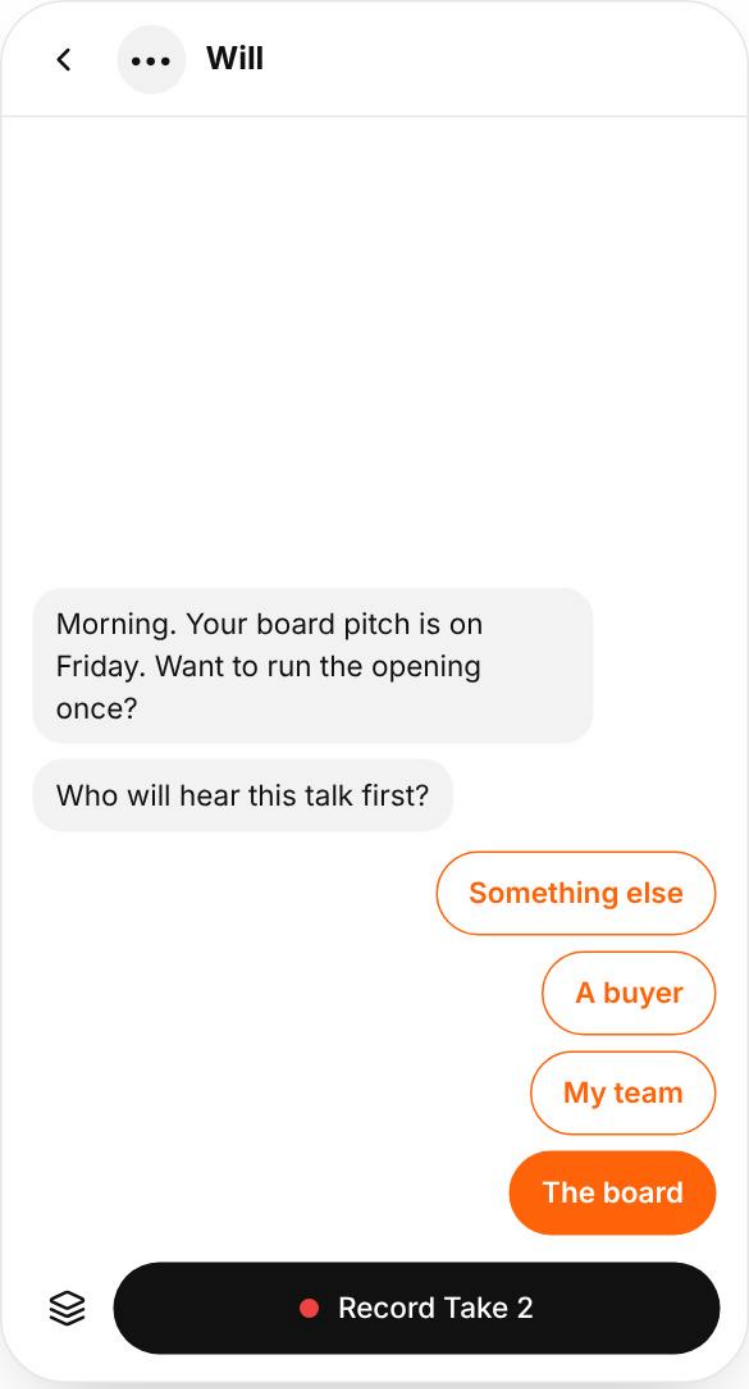

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Your review is unfinished, so the middle is "Continue review", with no red dot because it isn't a recording. The next Take comes after it.

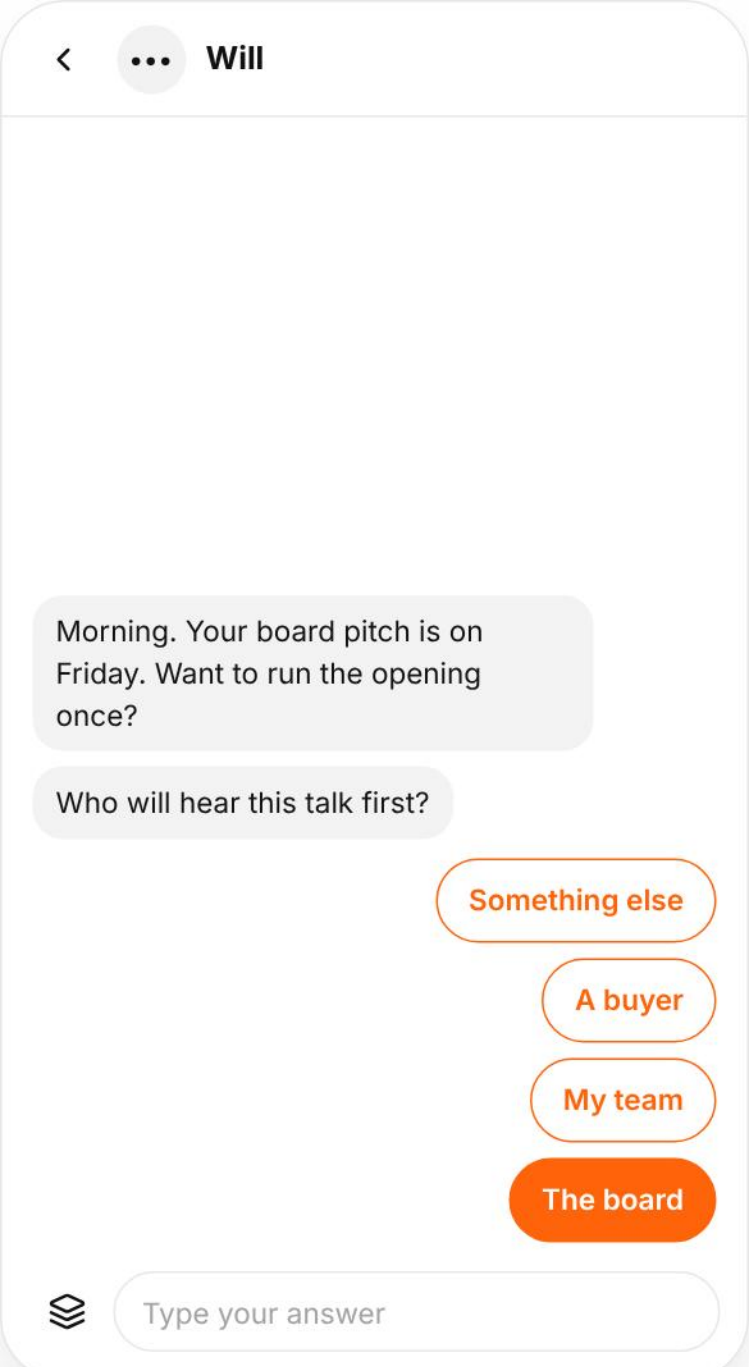

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Will asks, with answers to tap above the bar. The middle keeps the next Take, so his question never stands in front of practice. "Something else" opens the box.

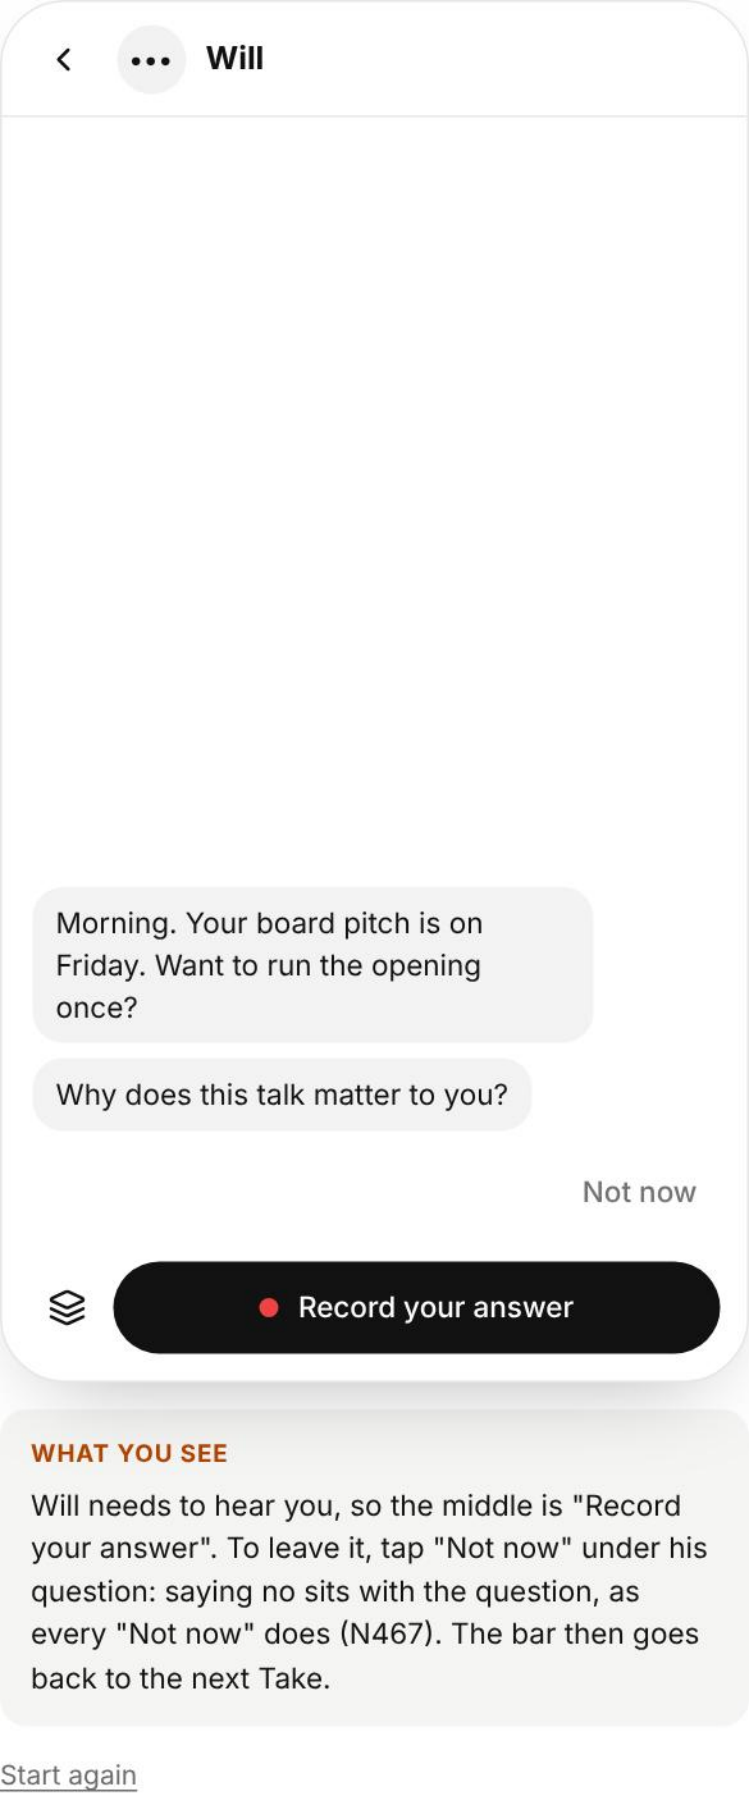

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

You chose your own words, so the middle is the box. Tap away with nothing typed and it closes by itself, back to the record button: no × needed.

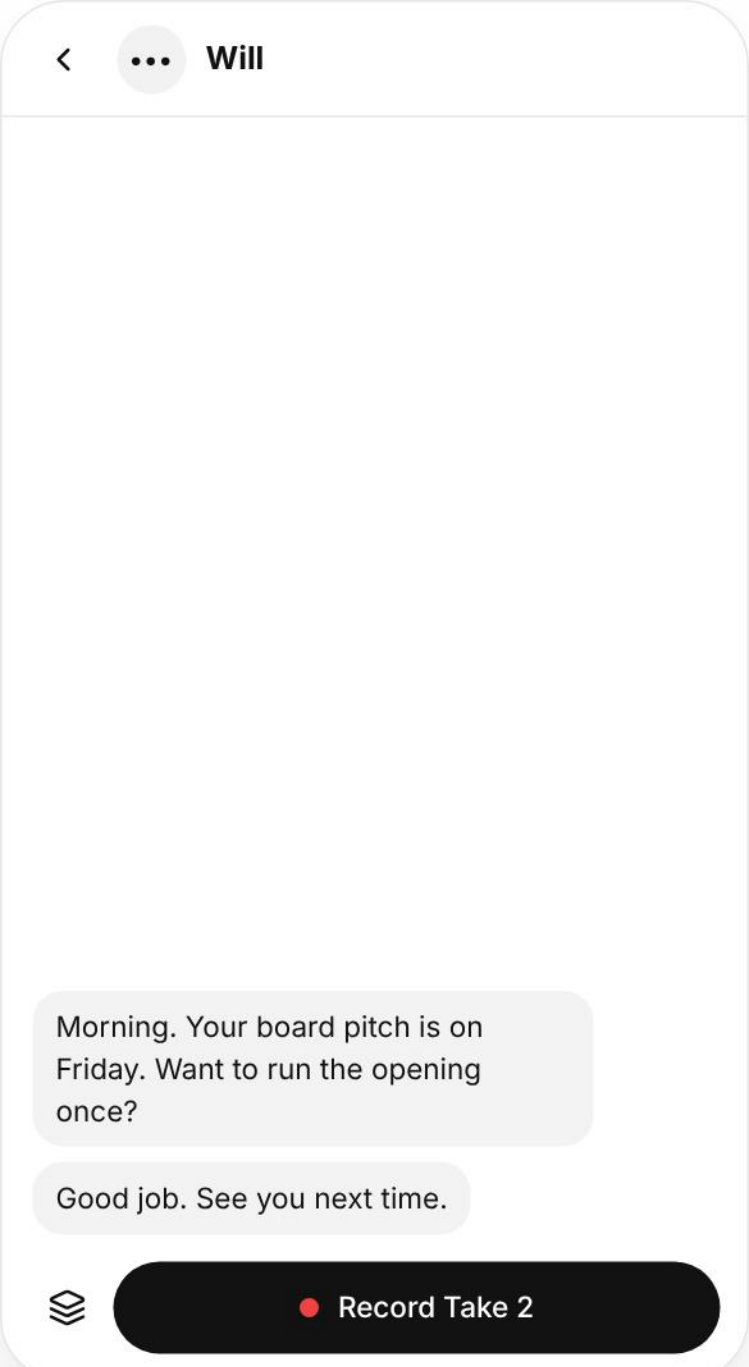

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Will needs to hear you, so the middle is "Record your answer". To leave it, tap "Not now" under his question: saying no sits with the question, as every "Not now" does (N467). The bar then goes back to the next Take.

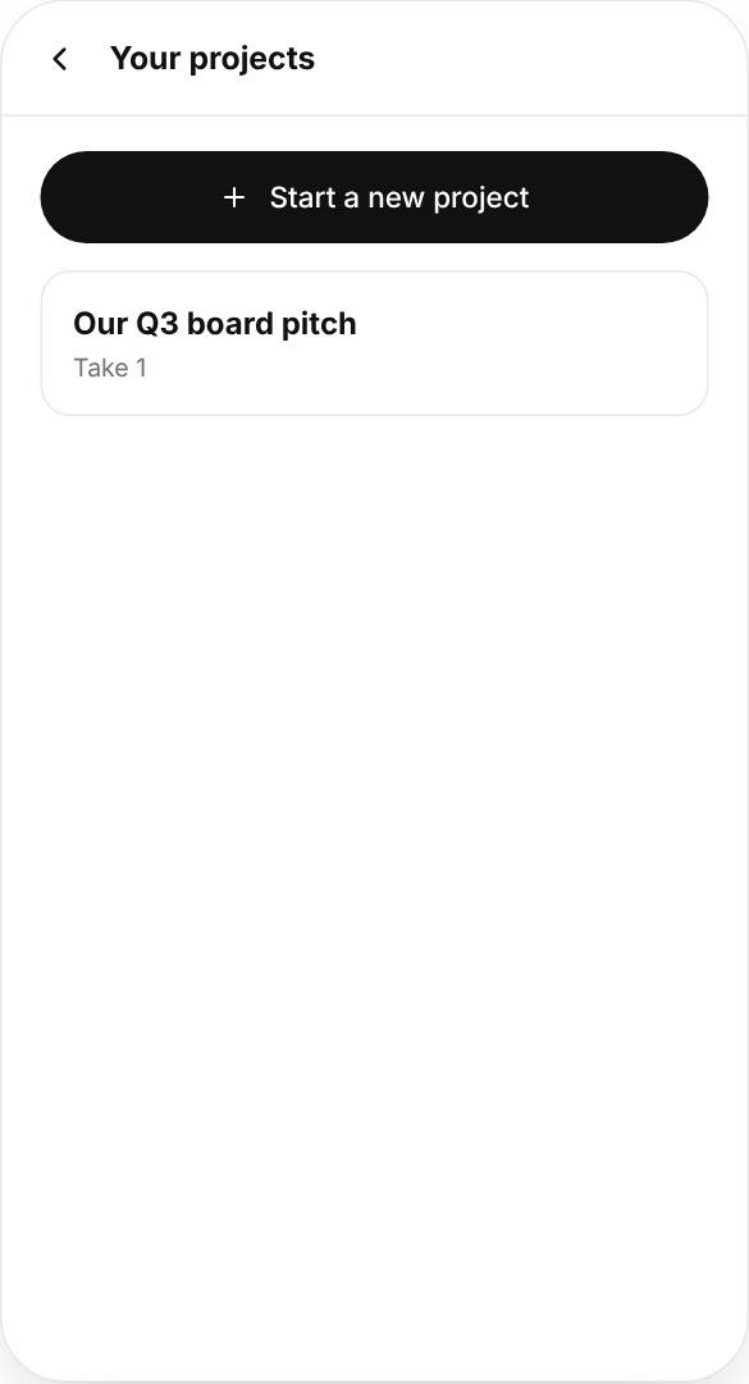

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Nothing is asked, so the middle is what Will's chat is for: practice. "Record Take N" is always one tap away.

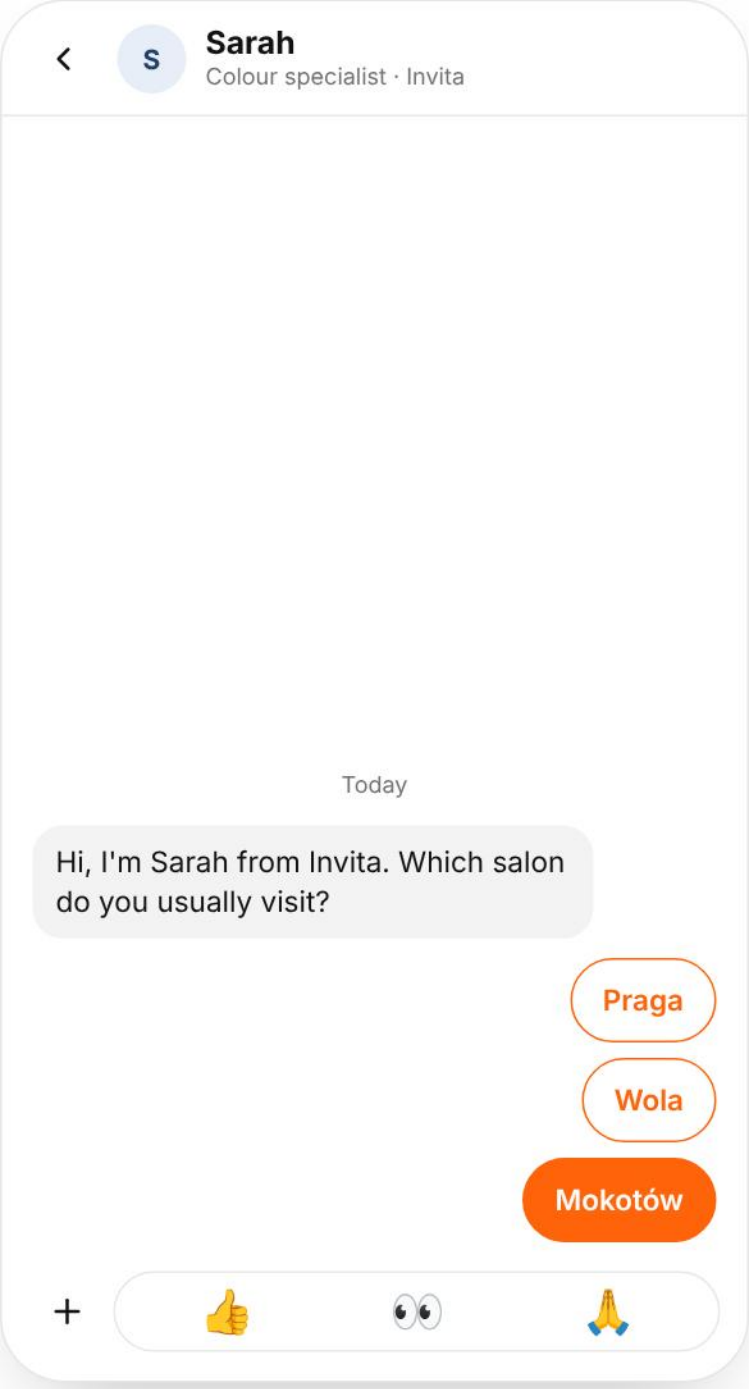

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

The stack opens Your projects, as today. It's on the left in every state of the bar.

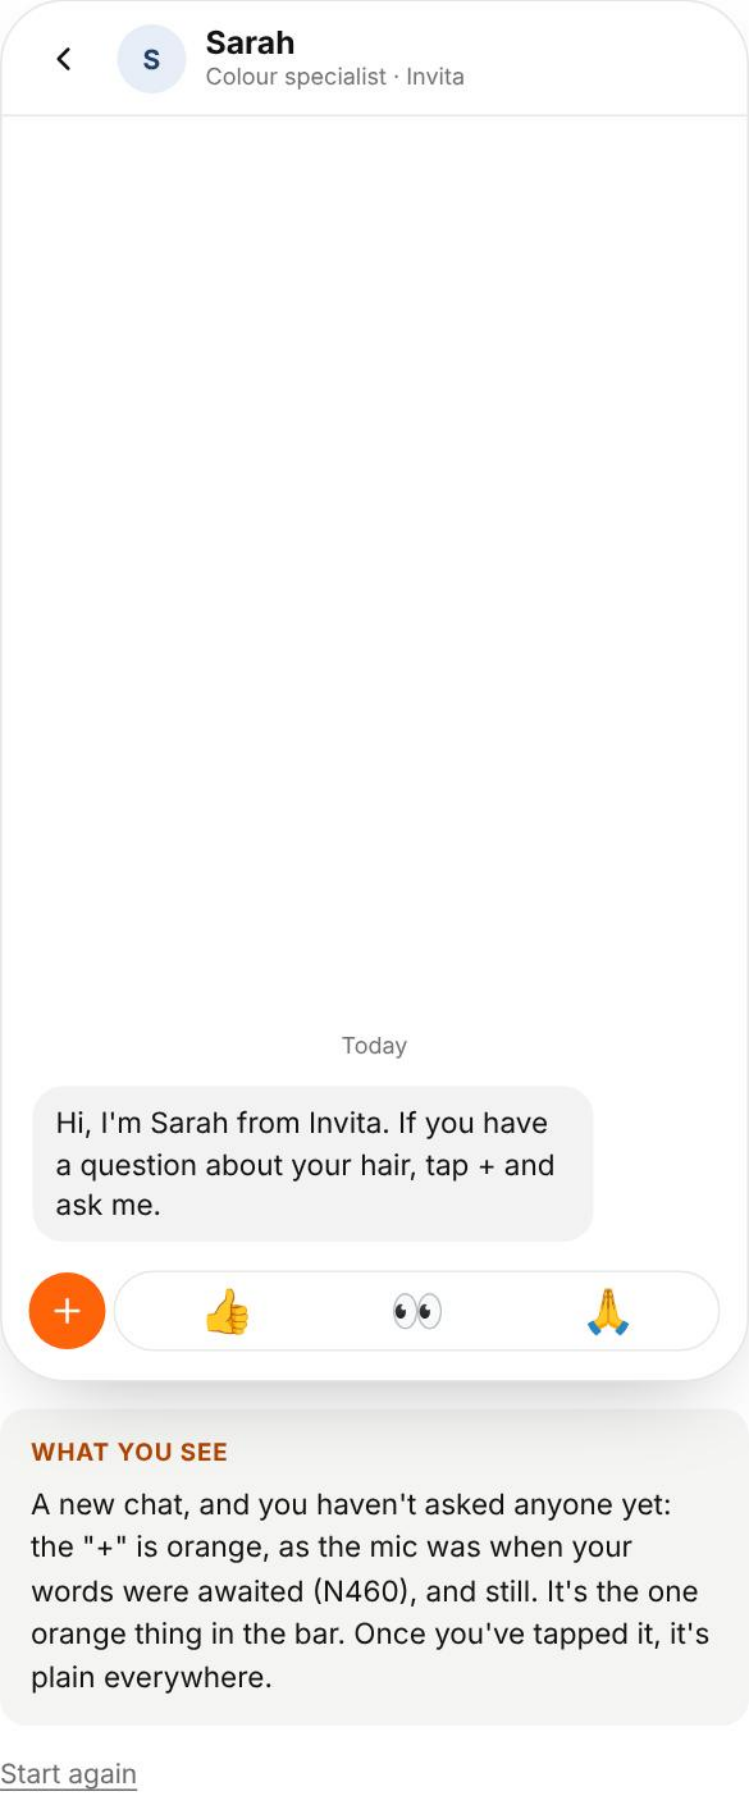

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Her setup asks only closed questions: tap an answer under her question, on your side, as with Will's (N467). There's no box in a chat with a person; the bar keeps the "+" and the emoji.

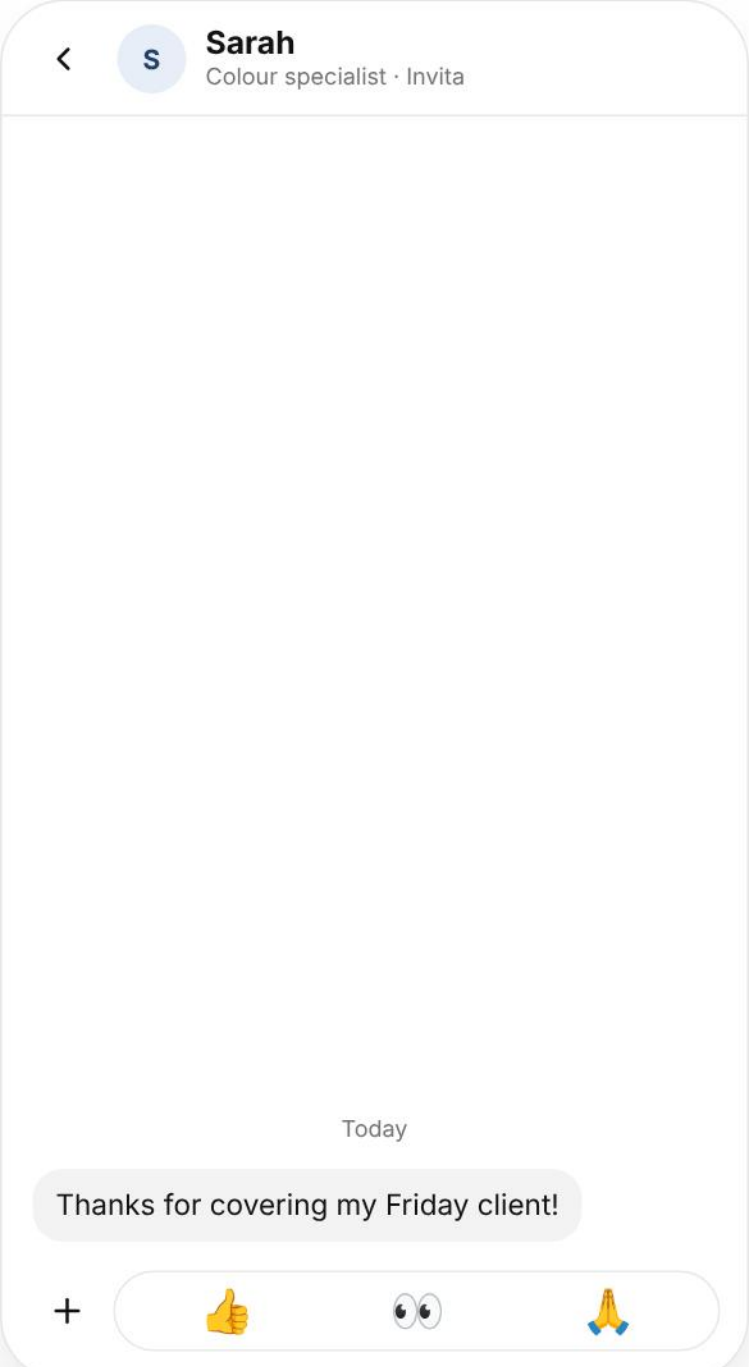

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

A new chat, and you haven't asked anyone yet: the "+" is orange, as the mic was when your words were awaited (N460), and still. It's the one orange thing in the bar. Once you've tapped it, it's plain everywhere.

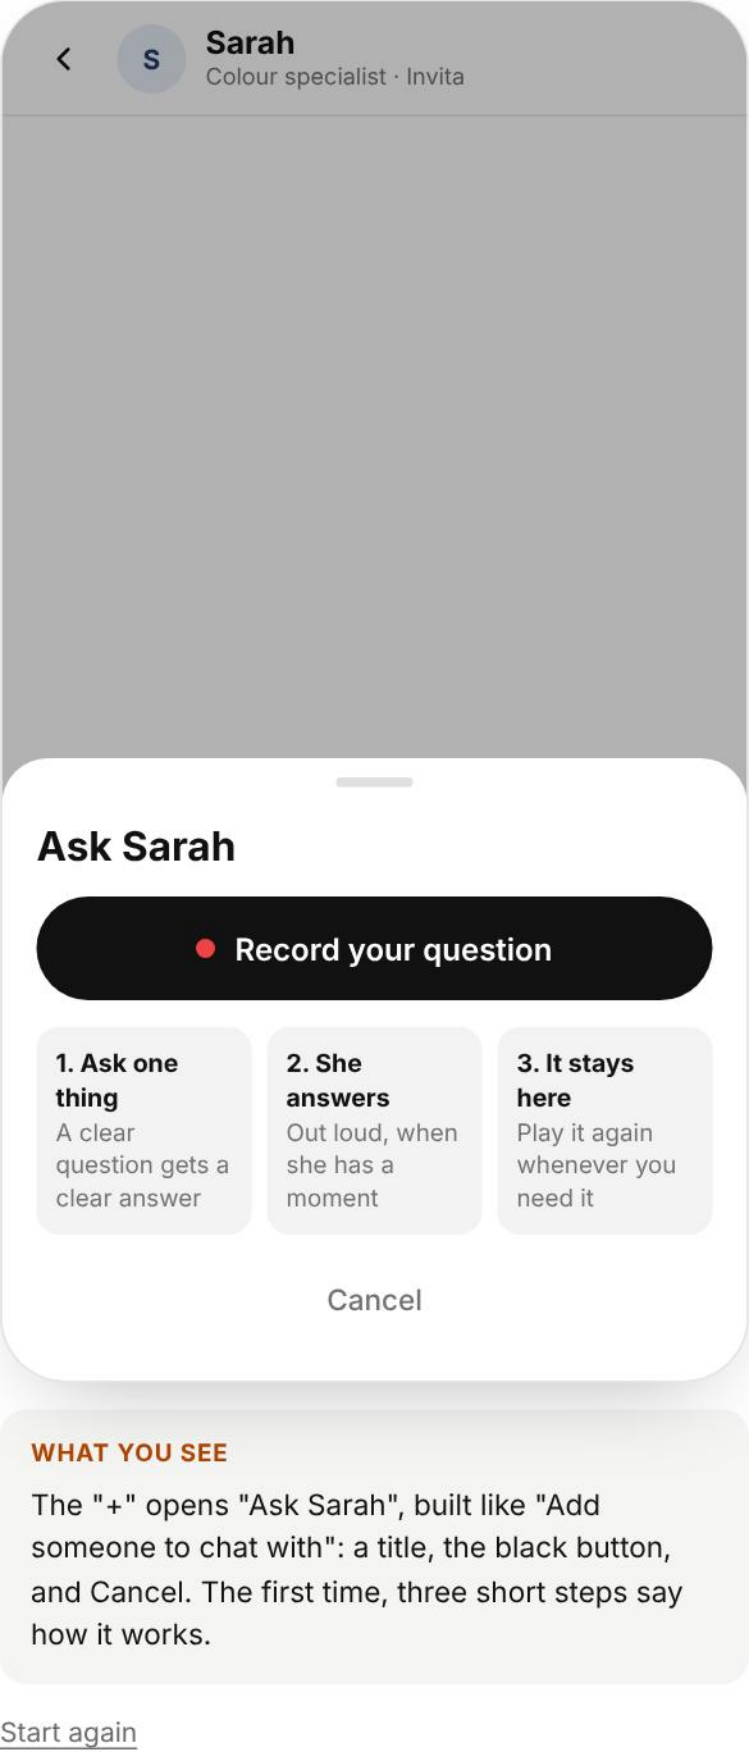

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Nothing is asked: the "+" on the left, the emoji in the middle, as before. The "+" adds a question for Sarah: it opens "Ask Sarah".

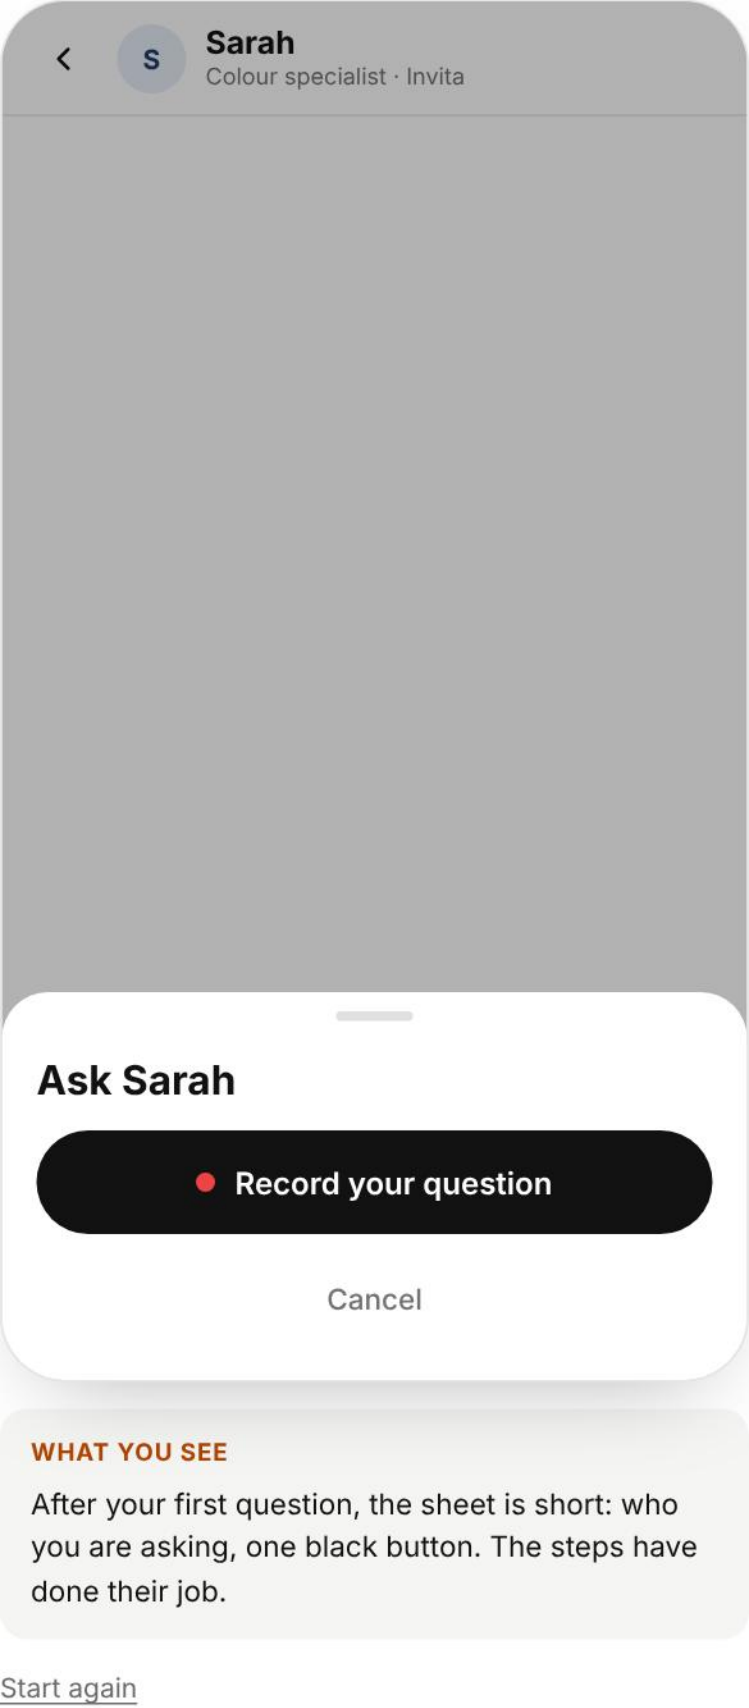

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

The "+" opens "Ask Sarah", built like "Add someone to chat with": a title, the black button, and Cancel. The first time, three short steps say how it works.

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

After your first question, the sheet is short: who you are asking, one black button. The steps have done their job.

Start again

To Sarah · Slide 1 of 3

Opening

What you'll talk about, in one line.

1:52

Back

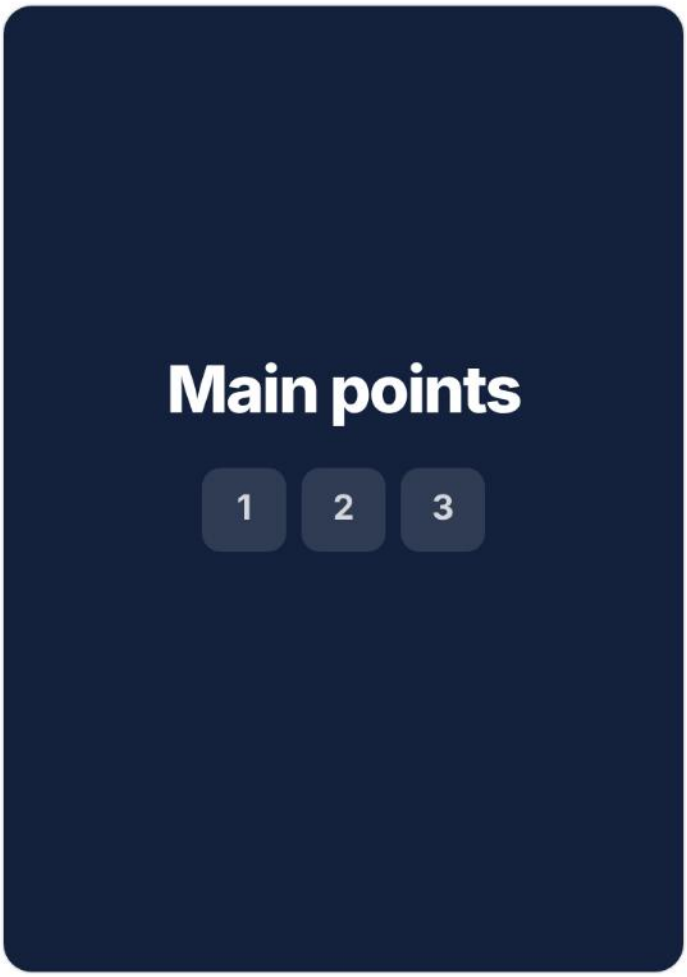

Next slide

WHAT YOU SEE

Your question always opens the default presentation on the recording screens: Opening, Main points with 1 2 3, and Summary. These are the real screens. The top line names Sarah. Tap Next slide, then Finish take.

Start again

To Sarah · Slide 2 of 3

1:19

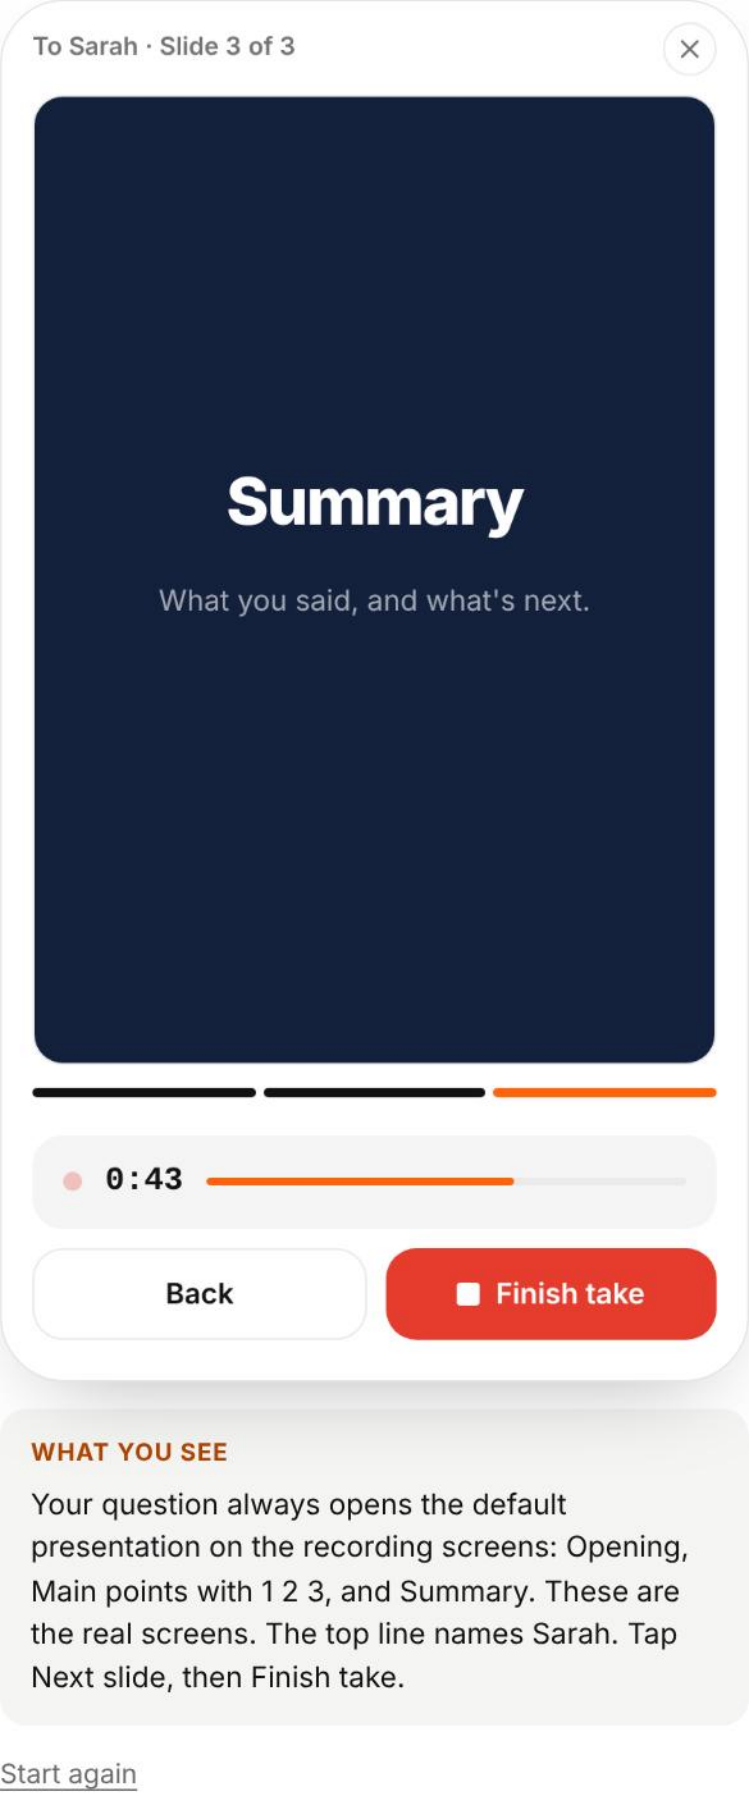

Back

Next slide

WHAT YOU SEE

Your question always opens the default presentation on the recording screens: Opening, Main points with 1 2 3, and Summary. These are the real screens. The top line names Sarah. Tap Next slide, then Finish take.

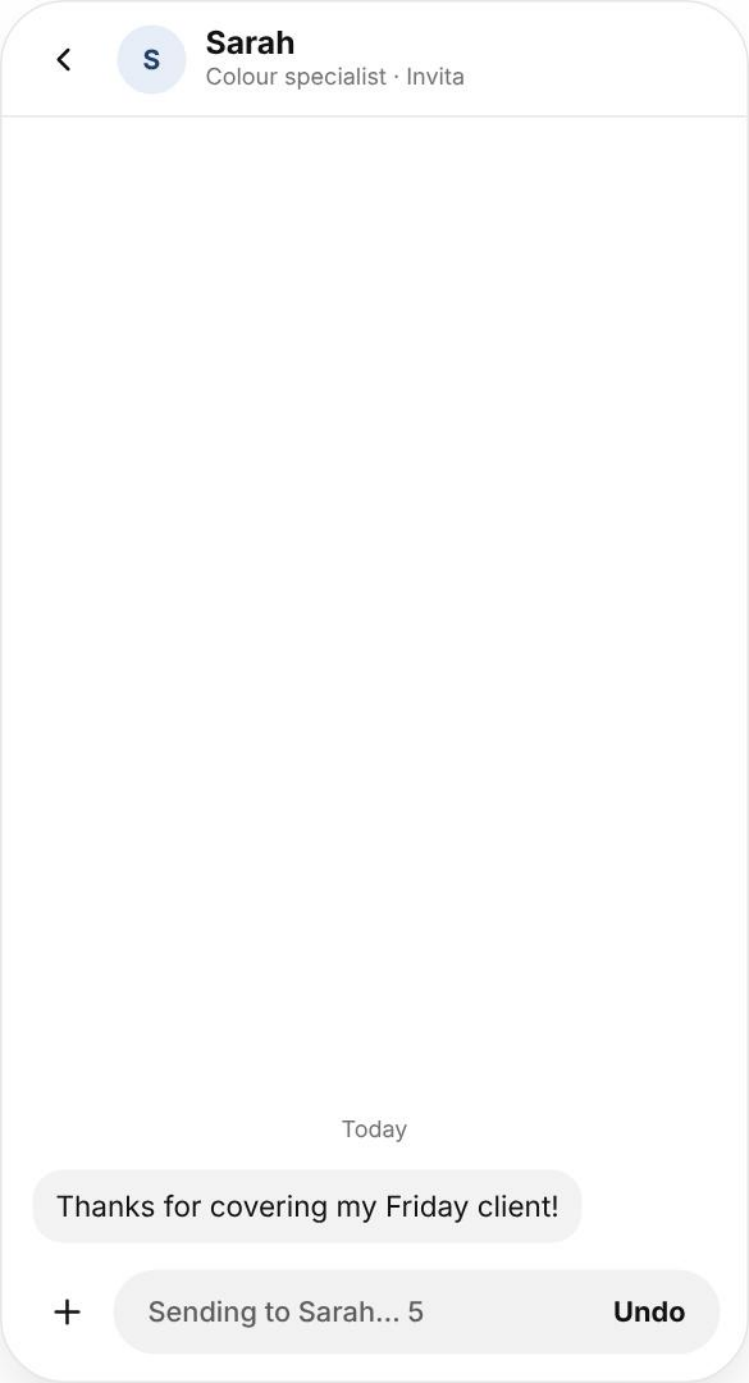

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Your question always opens the default presentation on the recording screens: Opening, Main points with 1 2 3, and Summary. These are the real screens. The top line names Sarah. Tap Next slide, then Finish take.

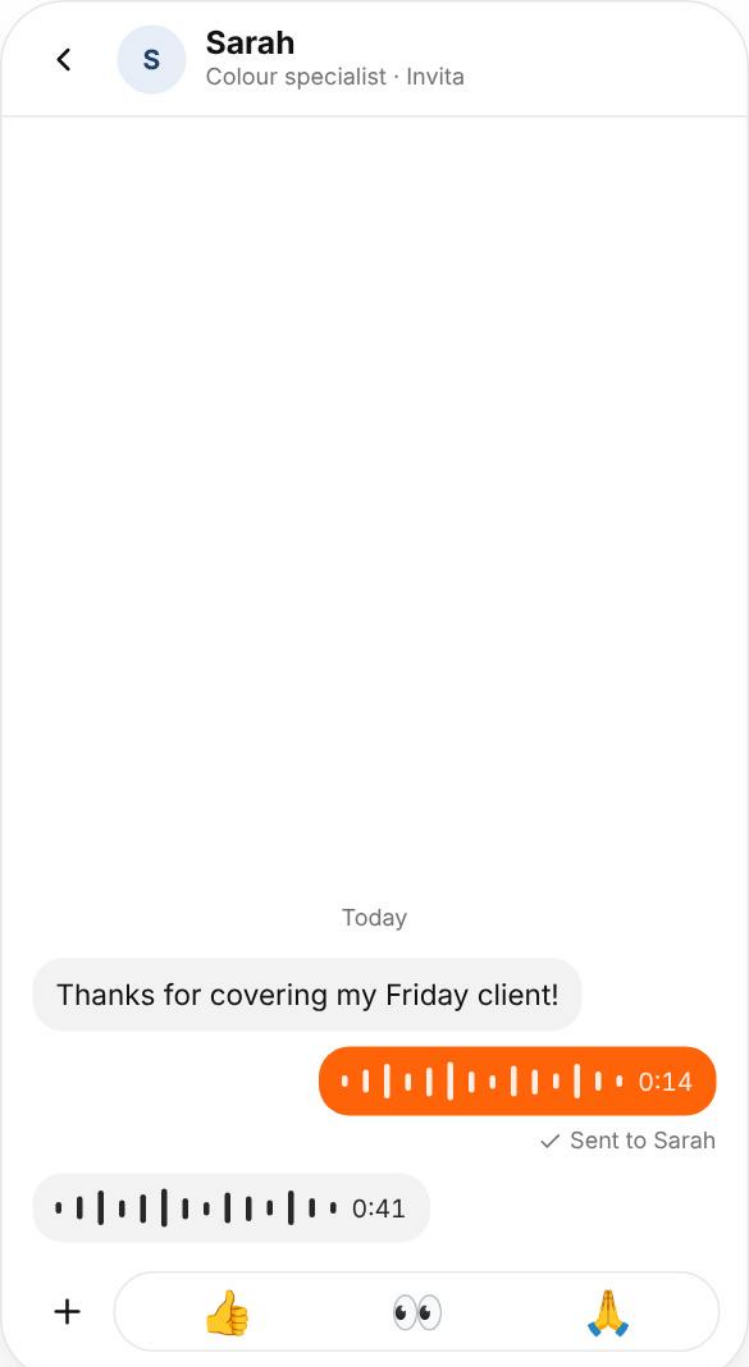

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

"Sending to Sarah..." with Undo for 5 seconds, as today.

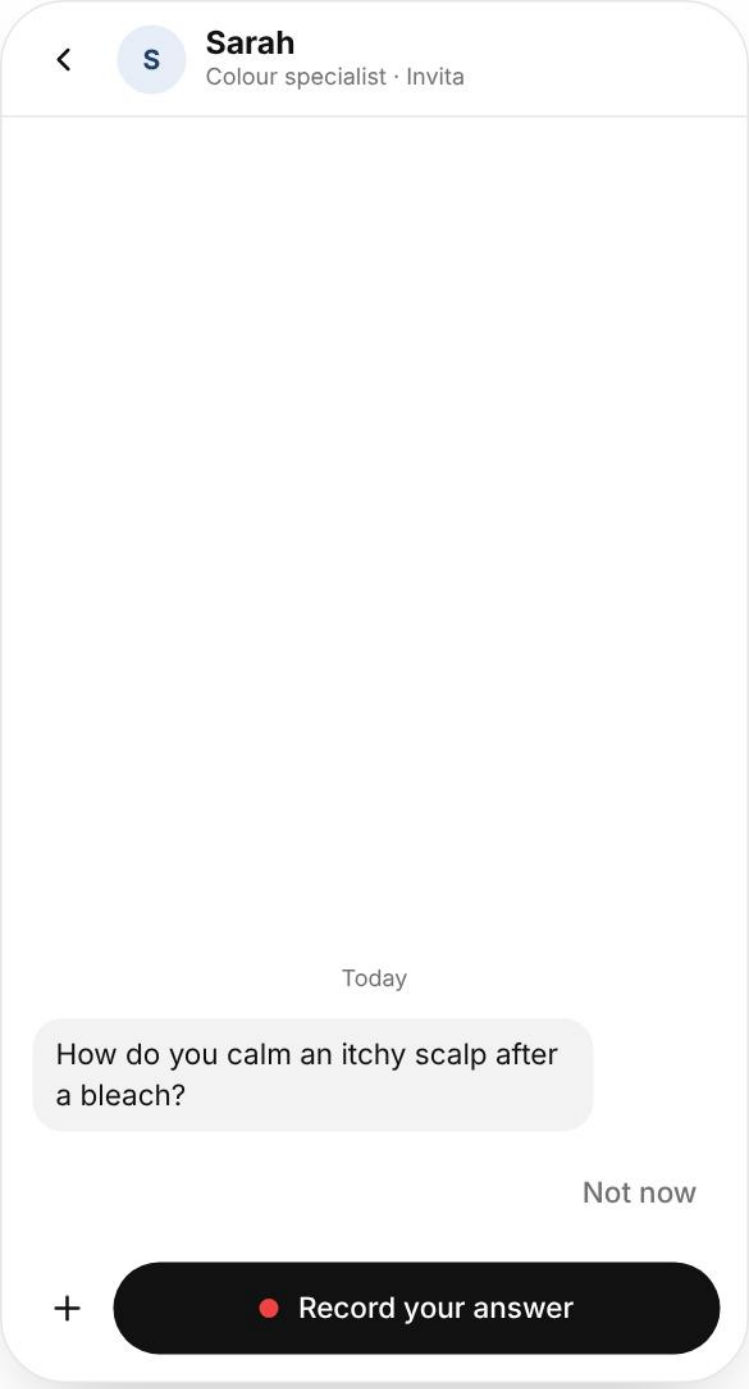

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Nothing is asked: the "+" on the left, the emoji in the middle, as before. The "+" adds a question for Sarah: it opens "Ask Sarah".

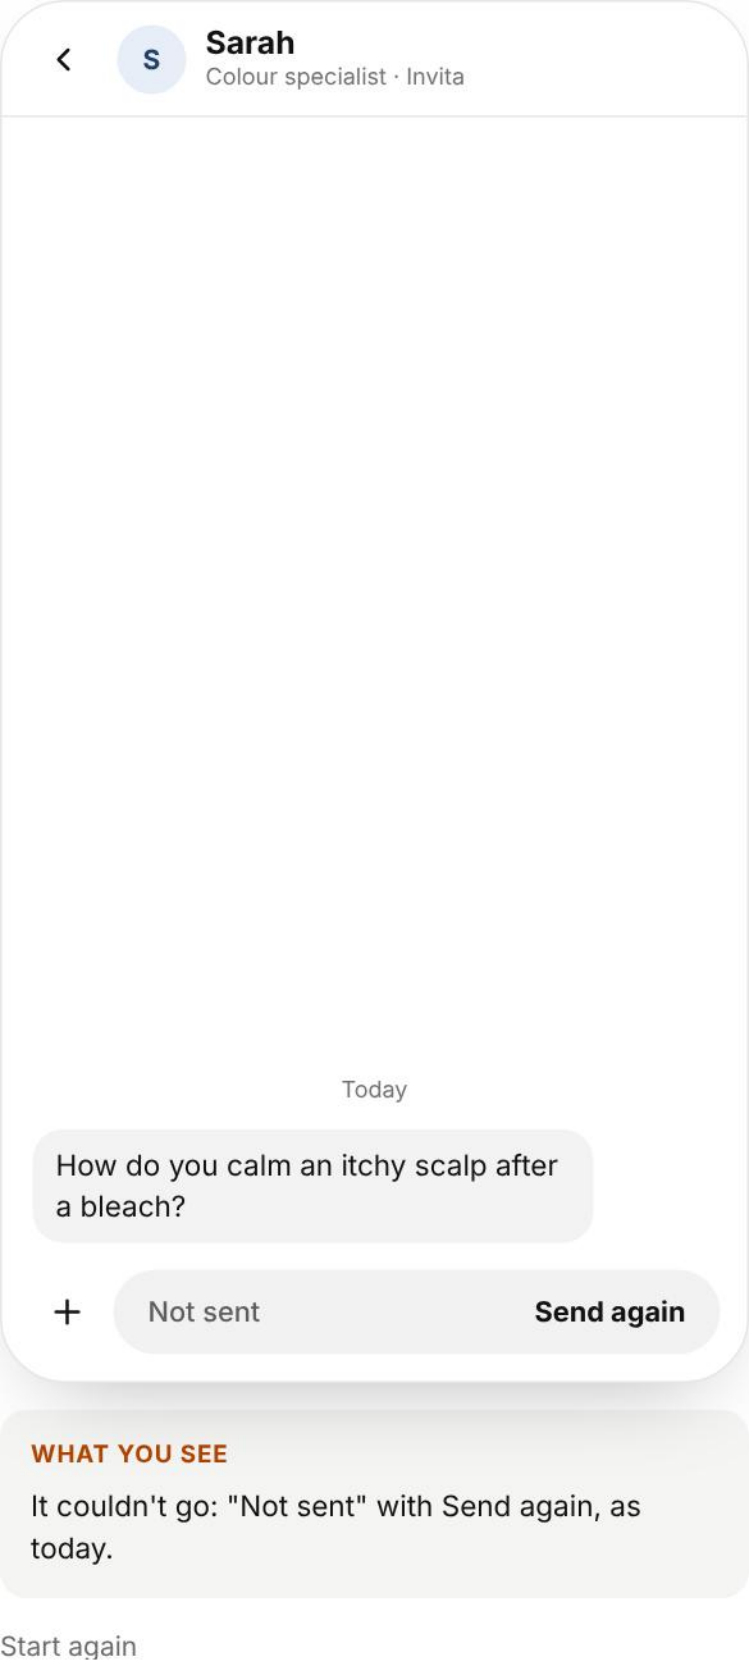

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Sarah asked you something to answer properly, so the middle is "Record your answer". "Not now" under her question gives the emoji back. Sarah isn't told.

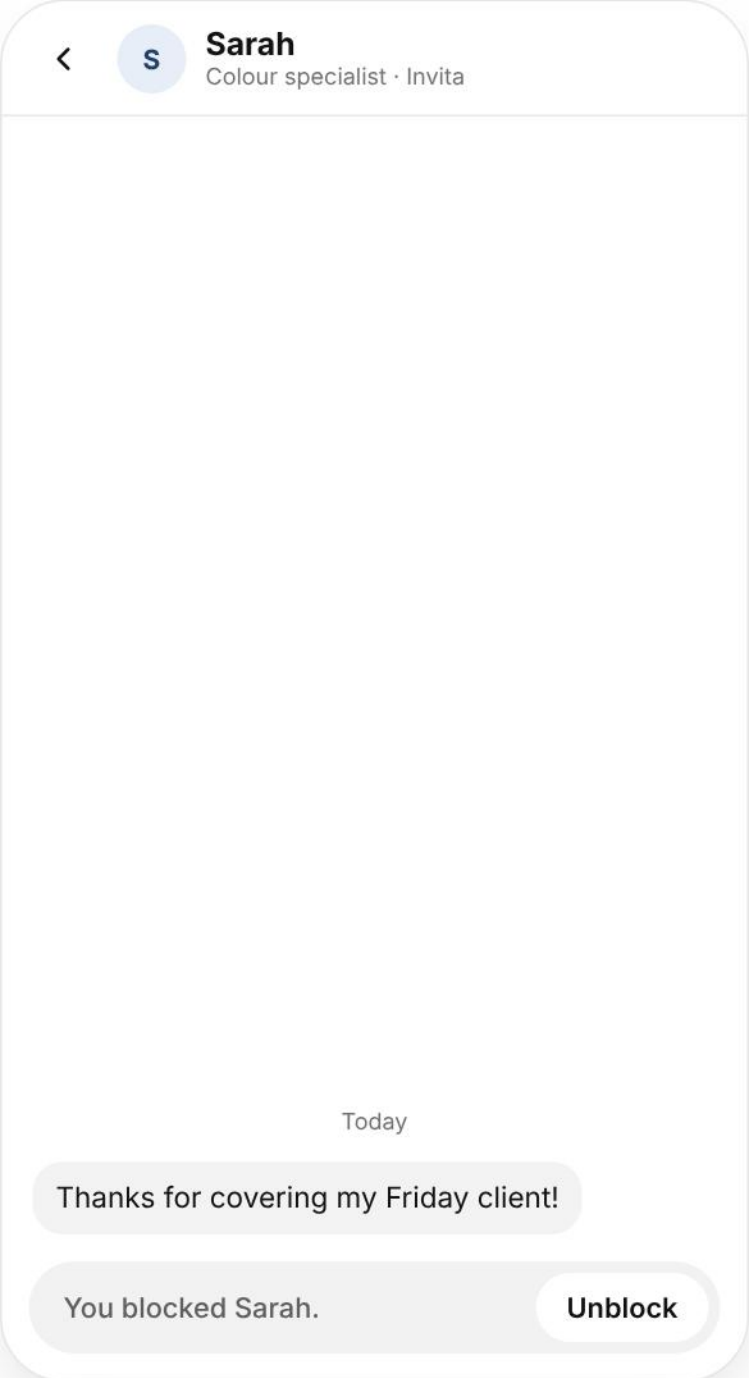

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

It couldn't go: "Not sent" with Send again, as today.

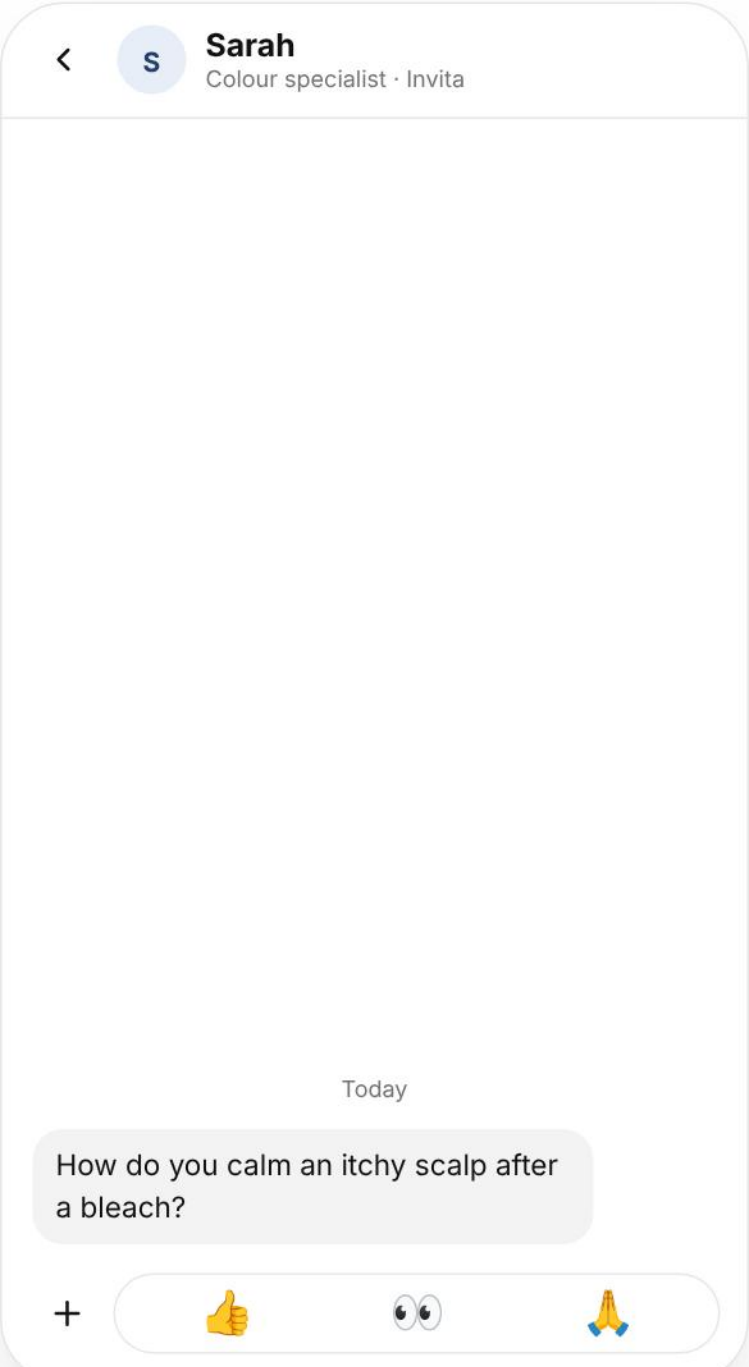

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

Blocked, the whole bar is one grey pill with Unblock, as today.

Start again

WHAT YOU SEE

You tapped "Not now", so the emoji are back. Her question still waits, and "Record your answer" comes back when you open the chat again.

Start again